Master of Software Development, MSD

Master of Software Development Program Learning Outcomes

At the successful completion of the program, students will be able to:

1. Design and create technological solutions that address contemporary real-world problems.
2. Evaluate current techniques, skills, and tools necessary for professional practice.
3. Value and weigh professional, ethical, legal, security and social issues and responsibilities in professional practice.
4. Construct effective solutions in teams.