

Individualized Studies, BAP

Program Description

The Utah Tech Bachelor of Applied Practice in Individualized Studies is an interdisciplinary degree program in which students customize and title their program of study in accordance with their post-graduate goals and in collaboration with supportive and enthusiastic faculty and staff mentors. This degree program aims to serve students with the maturity and life experience to participate in the design of their own program, who have specific career goals that do not require a traditional bachelor's degree, and who want to enter the job market quickly.
